

Objective of the Practice:

To provide financial assistance to economically weaker students of the college to ensure continuity of their education and to promote equal opportunities for academic growth.

Context:

Many students at the college come from financially challenged backgrounds, which affects their ability to pay fees, purchase books, or meet other educational expenses. To address this issue, the teachers of the college voluntarily initiated a noble practice of contributing money from their own salaries to create a scholarship fund. This initiative aims to support deserving students and prevent dropouts due to financial constraints.

Practice:

The teachers collectively contribute a fixed or voluntary amount every month towards the scholarship fund. A committee is formed to identify economically weaker students based on their financial background, academic performance, and sincerity towards studies. The selected students are provided with scholarship support. The entire process is transparent, and the support is given without any discrimination.

Evidence of Success:

- Many students benefitted from the scholarship and continued their education without interruption.
- The initiative helped reduce student dropouts due to financial issues.
- Beneficiary students showed improved academic performance and participated actively in co-curricular activities.
- The initiative strengthened the bond between teachers and students and promoted a culture of compassion and social responsibility in the institution.

Conclusion:

This teacher-led scholarship initiative is a remarkable best practice that promotes inclusive education, supports academically deserving students from weaker sections, and reinforces the values of empathy, service, and community support within the college. It is a sustainable and impactful model that can be adopted by other educational institutions as well.

Best Practice: Parent Awareness Through Postal Dispatch of Mid-Term Examination Reports

5.1

Title of the Practice:

Enhancing Parent-Student Engagement by Sending Mid-Term Examination Reports to Parents via Postal Mail

Objective of the Practice:

To strengthen communication between the college and parents by keeping them informed about their ward's academic performance, attendance, and progress. This initiative aims to promote parental involvement in the overall academic monitoring and motivate students to improve their performance. In many cases, parents are not fully aware of their ward's academic progress during the semester. This lack of communication often leads to poor guidance at home, resulting in a decline in academic performance and discipline. To bridge this gap, the college adopted a system to dispatch Mid-Term Examination Report Cards to parents through postal mail.

The Practice:

After the Mid-Term Examinations are conducted and evaluated, the college prepares individual report cards containing details of marks, attendance, and teacher remarks. These report cards are then sealed and dispatched via postal mail to the registered addresses of parents. The process ensures that parents receive authentic and timely information about their children's academic standing.

Benefits of the Practice:

- Increased parental involvement and awareness.
- Improvement in student performance due to parental monitoring and motivation
- Enhanced accountability among students.
- Stronger home-college partnership in academic development

Conclusion:

The initiative of sending Mid-Term Examination Reports to parents through postal mail has proven to be a valuable practice in strengthening student accountability, enhancing academic performance, and fostering meaningful home-college collaboration. It reflects the college's commitment to holistic educational development.
